I am a service designer with a background in communication design. I specialize in branding and translating complex concepts into digestible communication materials and infographics. I work across media, print, digital, and spatial, to design engaging narratives that connect with diverse audiences and drive meaningful impact. I bring a systems thinking lens to every project, ensuring that visual outputs are not only beautiful but strategically aligned with the project objectives.

Work Experience

Freelance, Vancouver

Designer

- Interaction and communication design projects, including AstroMunch package design.

Health Innovation Hub, Ministry of Health, Vancouver

Designer, Collaboration Specialist

- Managed multiple human-centered and community-based research projects from conception to the final design. Coordinated timelines, budgets, and community/stakeholder engagement session agendas to ensure alignment with ministry and community objectives. Such as the Agile nicotine strategy, virtual senior's care and etc.
- Designed print material and knowledge mobilization materials, including infographics, brochures, posters and collaboration tools for use during engagement events.
- Designed and facilitated participatory research data collection. Used interviews, co-design workshops, surveys, journey mapping, and system mapping to generate actionable insights across multiple health innovation projects. Synthesized the qualitative and quantitative data to inform decision making.
- Led equity-centered Indigenous communities' engagement through initiatives like the UBC Drone Transport Project and Agile Nicotine Strategy, applying Two-Eyed Seeing, trauma-informed practices, and community-led co-design Methods.

BIPOC Foundation, Vancouver

Community Engagement Manager

- Developed community engagement strategies rooted in the BIPOC entrepreneurs' lived experience, aligning program design with systemic equity goals.
- Built reciprocal, trust-based network of partners with community organizations, creating mutually beneficial collaborations that supported grant outreach, educational programming, and capacity building.
- Designed communication and marketing strategies, adjusting brand mission, vision, the tone of voice and visual identity.

ISM Arts & Culture, Vancouver

Service Designer

- Conducted UX research and co-created solutions for arts and culture programs.
- Designed educational frameworks and presented workshops for community stakeholders.
- Mentored emerging designers and developed communication strategies.

City of Vancouver + Emily Carr University, Vancouver

Researcher, Designer

- Developed participatory action-research project plans to conduct systemic and service analysis for food businesses. Created new context-tailored co-creation tools (or adapting existing ones such as journey mapping, surveys, interviews, fly-on-the-wall, and etc.) to capture participant insights.
- Co-developed ideas for interventions and facilitated on-site idea testing and prototyping, and documented participants' experiences and journeys.
- Managed end-to-end planning and logistics for stakeholder engagement sessions, including stakeholder outreach, session facilitation, and risk assessment, to ensure effective and safe execution of on-site and hybrid activities.
- Documented learning outcomes through visual representations of complex topics, storytelling and academic writing.

Eram Zoo Rebranding

In this project the primary goal was to address the needs of their target audience which was mainly children and their guardians.

Since studies has proven that 2D, simple curvy shapes can help children comprehend better, throughout the identity and environmental design, I used the shape across to create all the elements.

Eram Zoo Environmental Design - Interactive

The main idea in signage design was to create an interactive atmosphere in which even p-reschool children can learn about animals without reading any sign and navigate without any difficulty.

Main Map

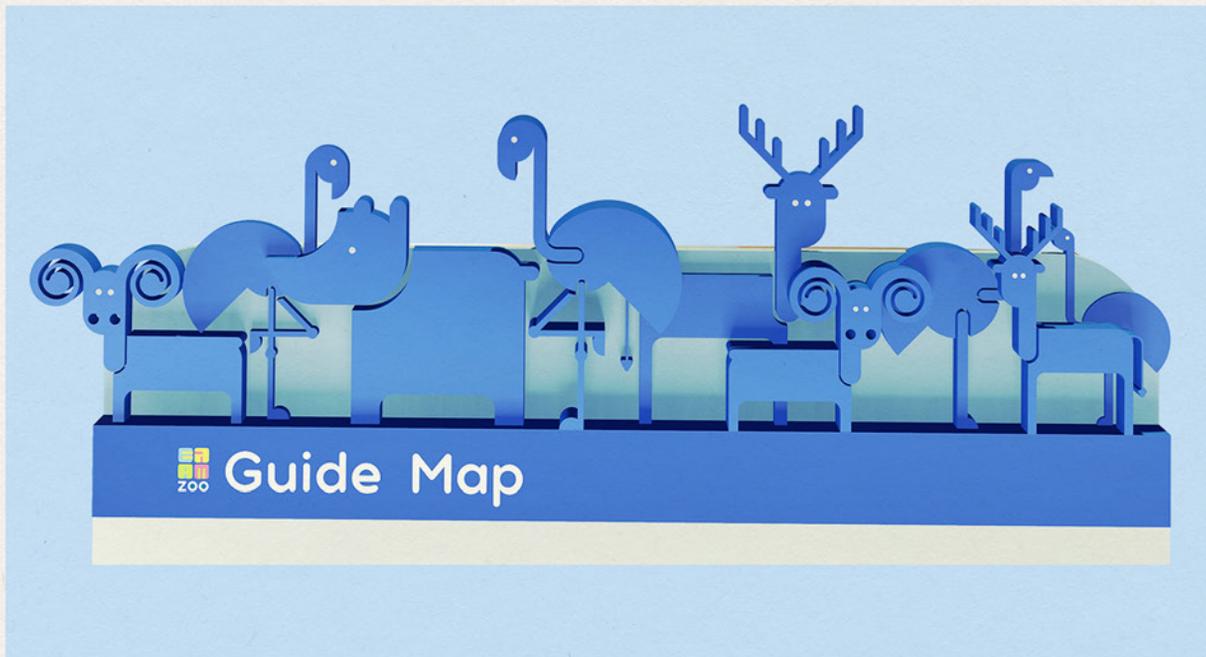

Using the minimum amount of text, for a child friendly wayfinding, I divided the zoo into colored zones that are connected to the main map via the same color line and leads the visitors to each zone.

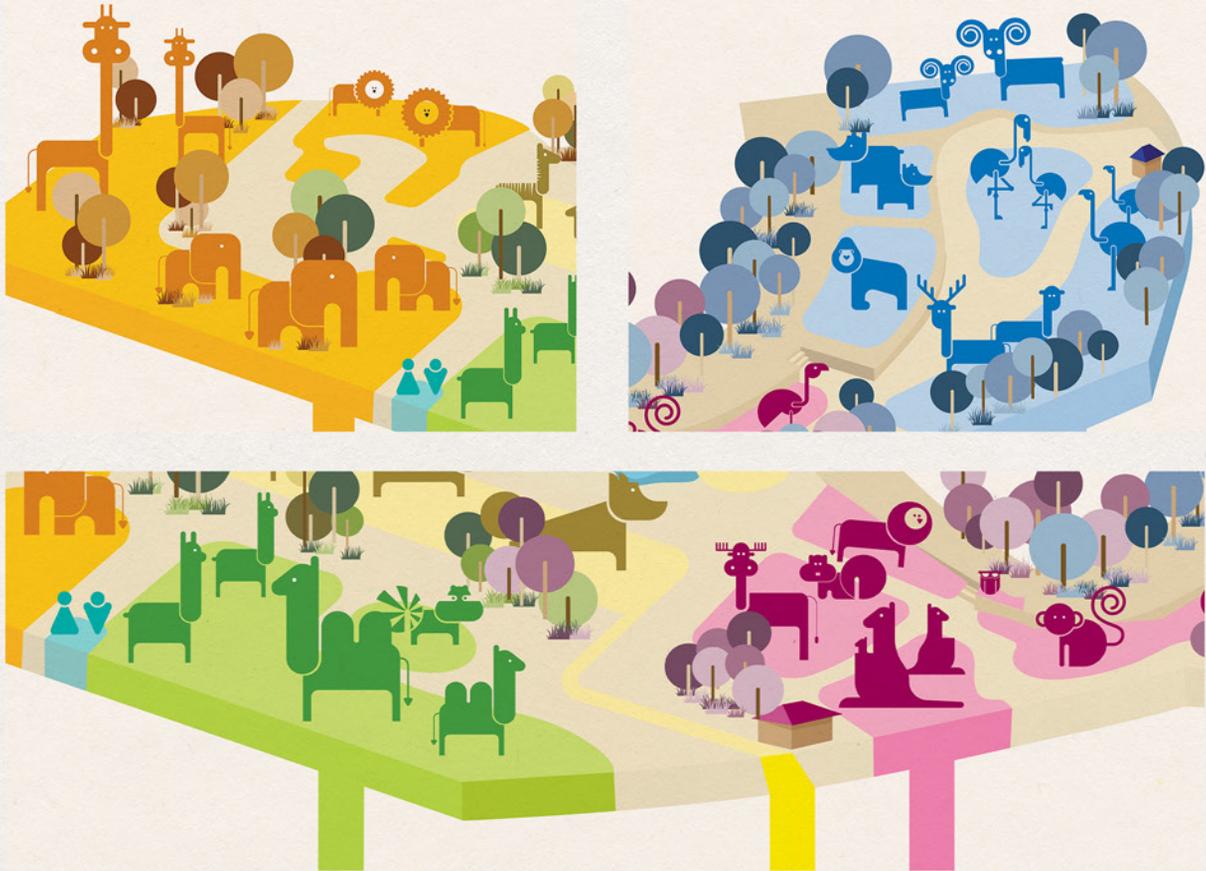

This signage design was majorly inspired by candy canes and lollipops stripes and each colored line begins from the map and leads to the related zone.

The color and the animals used in the header of the map varies depending on the color of the zone in which it is located. Therefore in each zone the animals of that zone are used in the header.

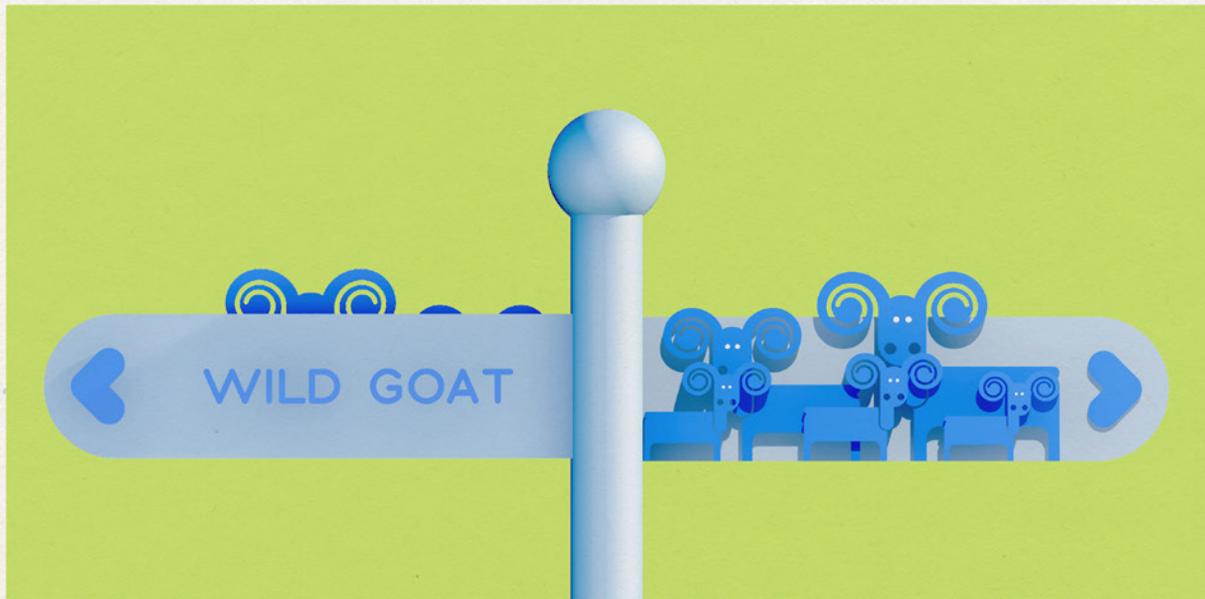

Map Details

Direction Signs

The direction signs are connected to the colored lines that indicate each zone.

Interactive Statues

Each statue has a motion detector system that gets activated when children pet it. The audio recording is designed to provide information about the specific animal that the statue represents.

Back To School Charity Event Poster Design

The inspiration for this design comes from a nostalgic folk song, taught at primary schools in Iran. The goal was to remind the viewers of their childhood memories and motivate them to donate school supplies to the less fortunate children.

Here you can read a rough translation of this school song:

A hundred rubies, sitting side by side
In many groups, in an order and with discipline
A hundred rubies, sitting side by side
In many groups, in an order and with discipline
Each of them is colorful and is shining
There is a white heart in each one's breast
My God has wrapped the rubies
Together, in some soft cloth
Both sour and sweet, and also juicy
Red and beautiful, it's a pomegranate

This song has been the symbol of primary school across multiple generations, and it fit my idea perfectly because I didn't want to show children in need and create a sense of pity in my audience. As mentioned, my goal was to make the audience recall their memories of childhood and make them feel sympathetic toward these children.

Here is the detail of children going to school and the left-out child. The sign says "The Pomegranate Primary school".

Fashion Designer Appreciation Poster Design

The target audience of this design is the designers and people who work in the fashion industry. Therefore I tried to illustrate the value of their job by comparing it to the life-saving profession of surgeons. Furthermore, since I wanted to experiment with non-digital techniques, I made figures out of clay and dressed them in handmade scrubs, masks and equipped them with tailoring tools.

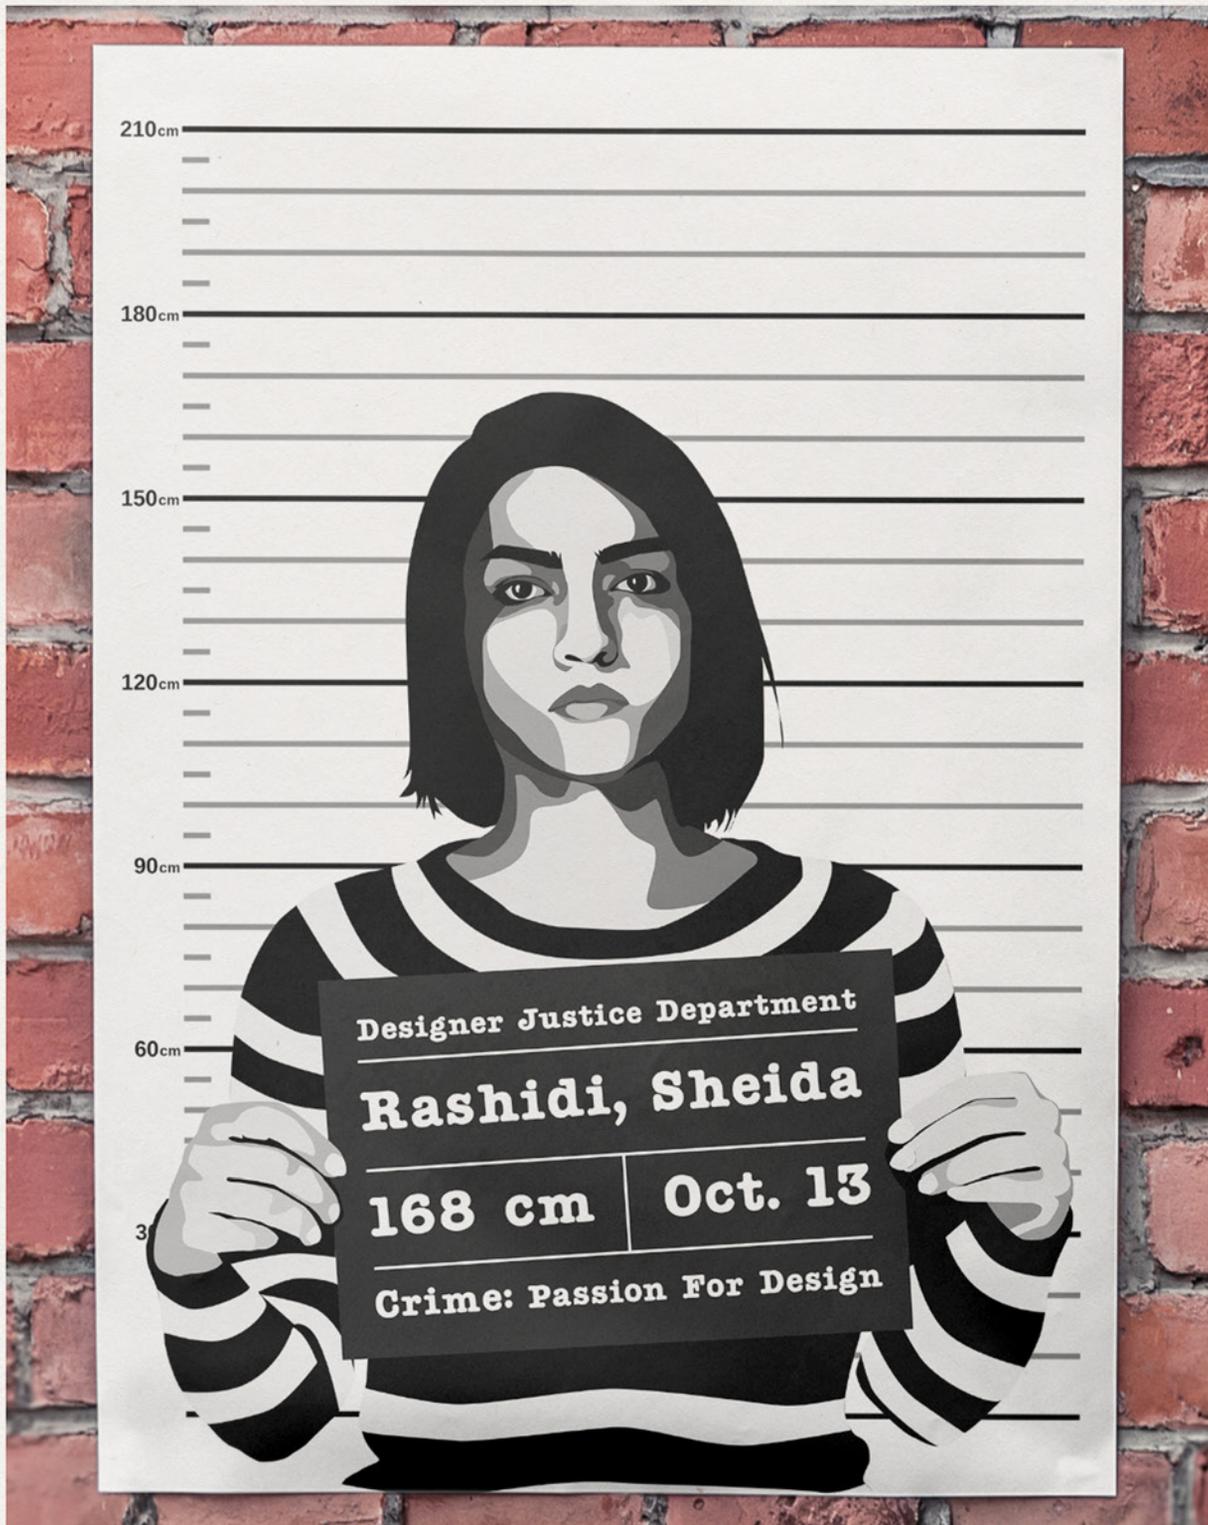

My handmade clay figurines.

Self Poster Design - Arrested for "Crime of Passion"

Finally, it all caught up with me!

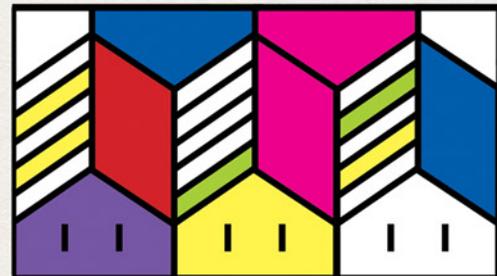

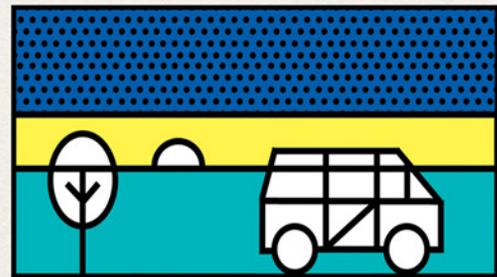

In Iran, it is not uncommon to get into trouble with the authorities for no justified reason. This design was inspired by the number of artists, writers, and journalists that have been wrongfully arrested over the years in Iran. It has dark humor for me because it shows how my passion can cause me trouble.

Papco Truck Sticker - Factory

Papco is a well-known stationery brand in Iran, however, the pattern used by this brand was sold as an original design by a person who didn't value copyrights. Since this brand was already known with this pattern, I was challenged to change the parts of the design that were copied without changing the whole identity of the brand.

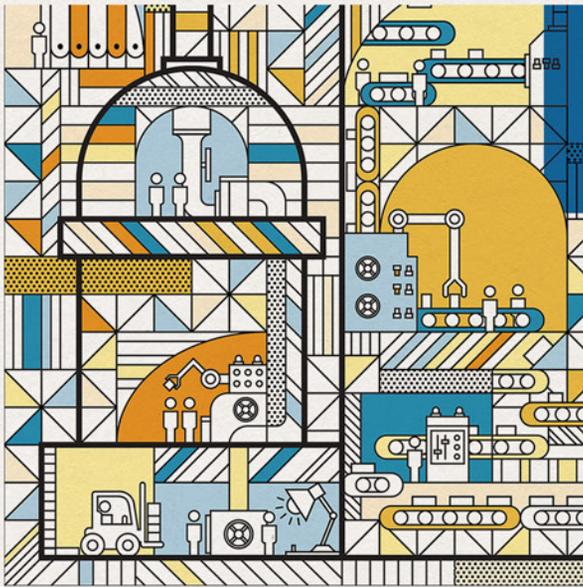

Pictures across show the parts that were copied from a package design created by Packlane for Fort Point Beer Company. All in all, I was assigned to subtly change the design and keep the identity intact.

The picture above was created as a sticker for the company's truck. The idea was to show the production line of the factory within the pattern. This sticker is roughly 4.5 to 2 m, and each square is about 8 cm.

True Colors of Iran - Tourist Attraction & Services

Iran is an ancient country with a very rich heritage. There are numerous historical attractions, monuments, handicrafts and other tourist attractions all over the country. However due to the government's incompetence, the tourism industry is not operating to its full potential. Furthermore, western media has illustrated a terrifying vision of Iran which can discourage many to visit this country. Though the media is to some extent accurate about Iran when it comes to its authorities, there is a lot about the culture and the people that is left out. The True Colors of Iran was meant to show an indepth vision of iran to the foreigners which could hopefully change their perspective. This project was special for me because it was my small contribution to my home country.

Idea

The main idea was to show that Iran has a layered identity which could not be defined with a quick glance and rather should be discovered and experienced to understand fully.

App Design

This app was designed to facilitate travelling to Iran every step of the way. The most important feature of the app is its survey that can categorize each visitor based on a series of questions and offer them the exact experience they desire. According to my research in the pre-design phase there are many types of tourists, from backpackers to highbrows who love to visit the monuments and historical sights, and each type requires different services that can be provided by the app.

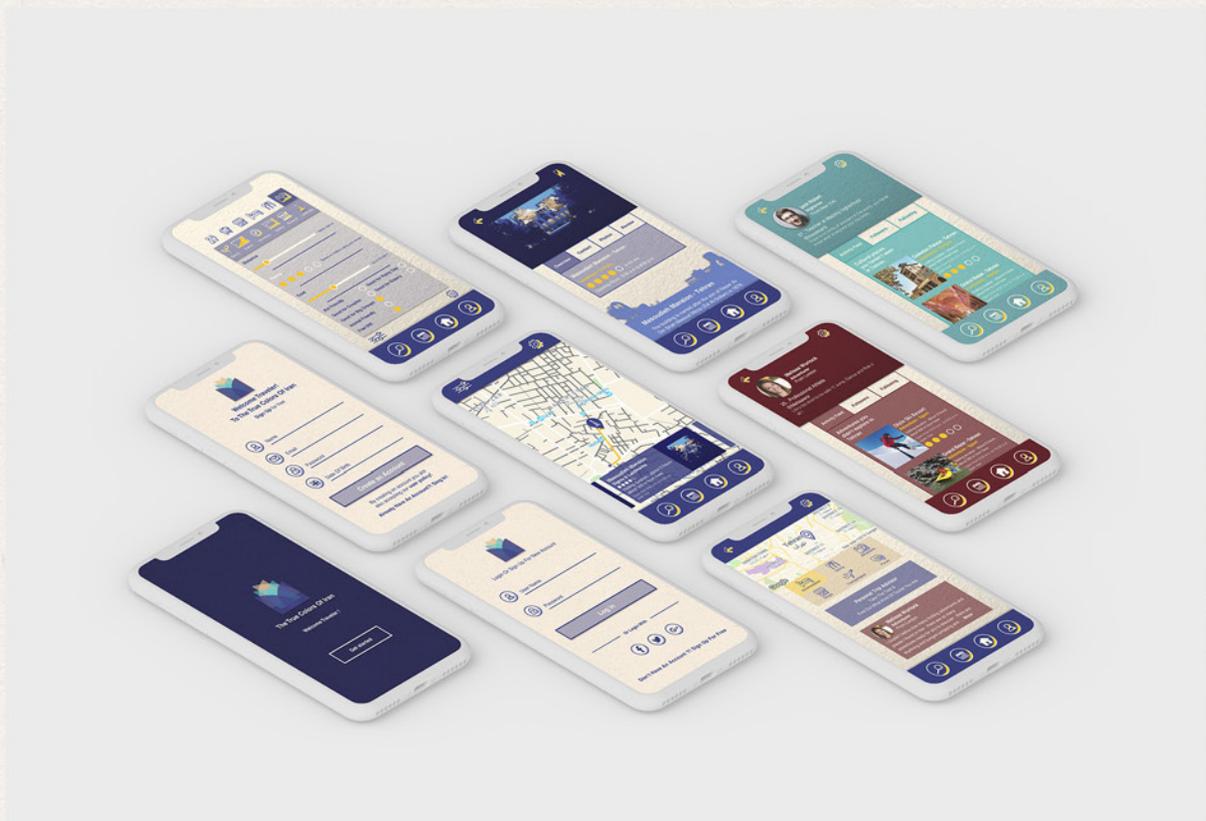

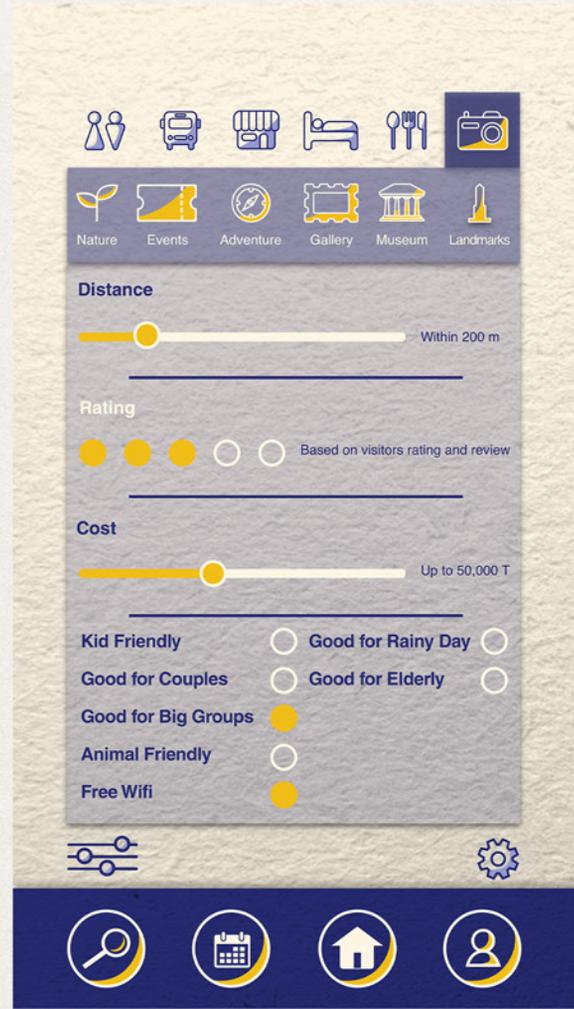

Services

in this page all the services required by the visitors can be found and sorted based on ratings, distance, cost and other preferences.

Also based on my research from actual visitors who visited iran from 2010 to 2018 their major difficulty was to find public restrooms and wifi internet, therefore I tried to keep these needs in mind.

Finding accomodation based on preference was also seen in the design and it is possible to find hostels, hotels or even camp sights in this app.

Another feature of the app is the transportation assistant, that is quite handy in vactions.

Website

The picture below shows a full web-site page which has the same features of the app (picture across) and can support those who prefer to use websites.

Finally I would like to mention that for more accurate prototyping, I used Sketch and Adobe Muse to present my designs.

Illustrations

For the illustrations I used a combination of techniques. Firstly I made a 2d vector replica of the sight. Afterwards I added a paper texture on all the elements, colored them, and finally gave each element shadows to look like the papercut technique.

The idea was to change the shadow intensity according to the time of the day that the user is online.

Uraman Takht

Experiential ideas

For a final touch, I wanted to design a system that could use ultra reality to show the visitors each tourist sight in it's past form. The idea was to use the app to turn on the camera and look at the sight in the old times through the app.
